

Curriculum vitae

Patsuree Cheebsumon was born in Phitsanulok (Thailand) on August 14th, 1973. In 1995, after obtaining a bachelor degree in Radiological Technology at the Mahidol University in Bangkok (Thailand), she was employed by the department of Radiology, Radiotherapy and Nuclear Medicine of the Phitsanulok Hospital for 3 years. In 1999, she received a master degree in Radiological Science at the faculty of Medicine of the Mahidol University. After obtaining her master degree, she was employed by the department of Radiological Technology at the Naresuan University. In 2005, she applied for a scholarship from the National Science Technology Development Agency of the Royal Thai Government. In March 2008, after receiving this scholarship, she became a PhD student at the department of Nuclear Medicine & PET Research of the VU University Medical Center in Amsterdam, The Netherlands, resulting in the present thesis. On February 24th, 2012, she will return to Thailand to become a lecturer at the department of Radiological Technology of the Naresuan University in Phitsanulok.

