

Content

1	Introduction	9
2	Update on training skills in urology. A systematic review Eur Urol 2008;54(6):1247-61.	27
3	Perceptions of surgical specialists in general surgery, orthopaedic surgery, urology and gynaecology on teaching endoscopic surgery in the Netherlands Surg Endosc 2008; 22(2):472-82.	49
4	Is endoscopic skills training (EST) in a skillslab necessary? Perceptions of urology program directors in the Netherlands. Based on paper in BJU Int 2008;102(10):1362-3.	71
5	Teaching diagnostics and transurethral resection of bladder tumors using a newly developed pig bladder model. J Endourol 2008;22(11):2547-53.	91
6	The virtual reality endourologic simulator (URO Mentor) is realistic and useful for educational purposes J Endourol 2009;23(7):1175-81.	103
7	Acquisition of flexible cystoscopy skills on a virtual reality simulator by experts and novices BJU Int 2009 Jul 6. [Epub ahead of print].	119
8	Transfer of urethrocystoscopy skills from a virtual reality simulator to the operating room: a randomized controlled trial BJU Int 2009 Nov 12. [Epub ahead of print].	133
9	How useful and realistic is the Virtual Reality simulator the Uro Trainer for training the transurethral prostate (TURP) and bladder tumour resection (TURBT) procedures? J Urol 2009; 181(3):1297-303.	149
10	Analysis of pitfalls encountered by residents in transurethral procedures in master-apprentice type of training J Endourol, in press	163
11	Validation of surgical simulators. A critical review of past, present and future Surg Endosc 2009 Jul 25. [Epub ahead of print].	179
12	Conclusion, discussion and future perspectives	199
	Summary. Samenvatting	209
	List of abbreviations	227
	Dankwoord	231
	Curriculum Vitae	239
	Publications	243