

Case managers with specific expertise regarding palliative care have been introduced in Dutch healthcare to help patients with palliative care needs and their informal carers obtain the palliative care that matches their preferences. This thesis examines 1) what case management in palliative care is, 2) what kind of support or care is offered to whom, and 3) whether the case manager has added value.

Case management in primary palliative care

A. van der Plas

Case management in primary palliative care

Annicka van der Plas